

Introduction to the Scorecard

The Victorian Residential Efficiency Scorecard (the Scorecard) is a unique program that provides an energy star rating for your home. In the same way as a fridge or washing machine has a star rating, a Scorecard rating shows how much energy is used by different parts of your home.

The Scorecard star rating program is the first of its kind in Australia. Assessments are tailored specifically for your home and are delivered by government-approved assessors.

The star rating provides an easy-to-understand snapshot of how your home copes with Victoria's hot and cold weather. This allows you to compare your home's energy use with similar homes and quickly see how to save money on your bills.

How a Scorecard assessment can help you:

- suggests upgrades to reduce energy costs in your home
- provides a hot weather rating and upgrade options to protect your comfort and health in summer.

Introduction to the Scorecard

Energy star rating for your home

The Scorecard provides an energy star rating for your home on a scale from one to ten. A high star rating means your home will use less energy, and cost less to run, than one with a lower star rating.

That's why homes that achieve a high star rating can expect a lower energy bill than the average home.

Currently, the average Victorian home is three-star rated so there are cheap and simple ways you can increase your home's rating and spend less on your energy bills.

What to expect for your assessment

An accredited assessor will visit your home to conduct a thorough on-site assessment. They will collect data covering: construction materials, your hot water system, heating, cooling, lighting and any renewable energy sources.

At the end of the assessment the assessor will provide your home's star rating and you can view your Scorecard certificate. The certificate will also be sent to you later, after quality checks have been completed.

Your certificate:

- shows your home's star rating out of 10
- rates various elements of your home, such as the building itself and major appliances
- rates the performance of your home in hot weather
- provides practical options to improve your home's energy efficiency.

Energy advice you can trust

The program is available across Victoria. Contact an assessor to get a quote for assessing your home – find their contact details and the areas they serve at
